Faculty Engagement at UCSC

● CONSULT: UC Santa Cruz and the UC System in general have a robust culture of shared governance.

● INCENTIVIZE: the faculty execute major aspects of campus internationalization.
Strategic Academic Planning

- Strategic Academic Plan development (2017-2019) produce three Academic Priority Areas:
  - Justice in a Changing World
  - Earth Futures
  - Digital Interventions
- Faculty synergy elevated Global Health as a multi-disciplinary cluster hiring priority.
- The SAP largely neglected global engagement / internationalization.
- UCSC Enrollment in ACE Internationalization Laboratory (2018).
ACE Internationalization Laboratory

- Expert mentorship and a “home-grown” approach
- Senate committee involvement throughout
- Faculty discussions at >30 department meetings
Faculty Incentives

“Engage and support a diverse faculty, staff, and student body” ¹

- Partner with the Committee on Teaching and Center for Innovative Teaching and Learning to create curriculum internationalization fellowships.
- Partner with the Committee on Research to create International Special Research Grants.
- Revise funding models to reduce costs and incentivize faculty-led study abroad or away courses.

Faculty-Led Study Abroad

- Two phases of Senate review
- 10 new proposals for summer ‘21 courses
- Challenge: Instructors are typically full professors and lecturers
Faculty Policies

- Challenge: How can we engage faculty at all ranks to participate in curricular and research internationalization?
- Tenure / promotion practices may be an impediment.
- How can we provide recognition for time-intensive international activities?

UCIE and system SIOs are currently “socializing” a white paper¹ to add International Activities to the merit and promotion review process.

Faculty Engagement at DePaul University

- Expanding international recruitment through the Faculty Ambassador Program
- Internationalizing the curriculum through Global Learning Experience (GLE)
Faculty Ambassador Program

Goal: Leveraging faculty to expand global recruitment efforts

Results: More misses than hits (9/22 visits completed; 27 leads; but small cost per lead $55)

Lessons Learned:
- Extremely complex coordination
- Highly resource intensive and requires strong interpersonal skills
- Opportunity to build buy-in and affinity with faculty

Next steps:
- Enhance marketing efforts to recruit more faculty participation
- Identify opportunities to streamline logistics
- Expand to include alumni connections
- Incorporate into faculty-led study abroad programs
Global Learning Experience (GLE)

Goal: To broaden exposure to international/cultural collaboration to our faculty and students who aren’t able to study abroad.

Lessons Learned:
- Intensive Faculty support required (tech, training/consulting, instructional design, etc.)
- Changed funding structure to include money for ongoing projects ($3500 for initial project; $500 for each additional up to 3x)
- Successful faculty help recruit new faculty participants
- Streamlining processes for training, application, review, etc.
- Partnership development – strive to have partners train together

Next steps:
- Sponsorship opportunities for our faculty to present at conferences about their GLE projects – i.e. IVEC conference; discipline specific conferences; etc.
- More interdisciplinary projects

DISCUSSION

THE POWER OF FACULTY ENGAGEMENT Strategies and Lessons Learned on the Road to Internationalization
SESSION LEARNING OUTCOMES & TAKEAWAYS

1. How SIOs can successfully engage with an academic senate to advance international initiatives

2. How to update and adapt successful programs that engage faculty

3. How to successfully leverage faculty travel to expand your global footprint

4. How institutions might create a virtual exchange program utilizing technology and providing faculty development.
DISCUSSION QUESTIONS

1. Does your institution offer faculty incentives around internationalization? If so, what are they and have they been successful in promoting engagement?

2. How do you measure faculty engagement in internationalization on your campus?

3. Open communication is crucial to engaging faculty in international activities. How does communication flow from the units advancing international initiatives to faculty on your campuses? How have you been successful and what has not worked?

4. How important, if at all, are interdisciplinary approaches to faculty engagement on your campuses? How successful have they been?

5. Do participants have other successful ways they have engaged faculty in international activities?
