What is your level of knowledge about the Global Convention on Recognition (GCR)?
The Global Convention on Recognition emerged from Regional Conventions

Regional Conventions, signed between 1974 and 2014:

- Latin America and the Caribbean (1974)
- Mediterranean Region (1976)
- European Region (1979 and 1997)
- Asia and the Pacific (1983 and 2011)
- Arab States (1978)
- African States (1981 and 2014)
The Global Convention on Recognition: What is it?

- Strengthen and promote inter-regional mobility
- Planning earnestly began in 2011
- 69 Member States and 10 stakeholder organizations (including AACRAO)

The US is not a party to the convention because of status with UNESCO and the decentralized nature of higher education
Objective:

Facilitate global mobility… in higher education for the mutual benefit of qualification holders, higher education institutions, employers …while understanding and respecting the diversity of …higher education systems.

Provide an inclusive global framework for the fair, transparent, consistent, coherent, timely and reliable recognition of qualifications concerning higher education.

- UNESCO Global Convention on the Recognition of Higher Education Qualifications
Global Convention on Recognition Components

- Consists of a Preamble and XXV Articles
  - Includes definitions, basic principles, objectives, obligations, and recognition
- Addresses Partial Studies and Prior Learning
- Alternatives for Refugees and Displaced Persons
Global Convention on Recognition
What does it mean for the U.S.?

- TRANSPARENCY of policy and placement recommendations
- DOCUMENTATION & CONSISTENCY of philosophy/practice
- APPEALS PROCESS
- Alternatives for REFUGEES
Global Convention on Recognition
What it does NOT mean for the US?

• Respects institutional autonomy in terms of standards, policies, procedures.

• Does not prescribe policies or establish a global framework.
  • A global convention will also fully recognize the sovereign nature of higher education policies and thus the sovereignty of State Parties to award diplomas, degrees and certificates in all fields of higher education within their systems.

• “Substantial difference” not strictly defined – an advantage for the US
The Global Convention on Recognition: What is it?

✔ Establishes the right to obtain educational recognition and provide information about education systems

✔ Requires parties to make recognition practices fair, consistent, non-discriminatory, non-arbitrary, transparent, quality-assured and “in accordance with established rules and regulations of each Party”
  ✔ Recognition should be based on good information and clear criteria
  ✔ recognition should be granted unless there are substantial differences
  ✔ explanation/appeal should be available

✔ alternatives should be offered for those in Refugee-like situations (unverifiable credentials)
Article III: The GCR’s Basic Principles

- Right of individuals to have their qualifications assessed for the purposes of applying for admission to study or seeking employment opportunities
  - process is affordable and accessible
  - documentation and consistency philosophy/practice
  - transparency of policy, decisions, and placement recommendation
  - fair, clear, and non-discriminatory
  - accuracy of information and eradication of fraud
  - respect for diversity of education systems
  - appeals process
Discussion Question 1:

- Right of individuals to have their qualifications assessed for the purposes of applying for admission to study or seeking employment opportunities

- How are international qualifications assessed at your institution?
  - Outsource, evaluate in-house, some combination, other?

- Why do you choose to do it that way?
Article III: The GCR’s Basic Principles

- Right of individuals to have their qualifications assessed for the purposes of applying for admission to study or seeking employment opportunities
  - process is affordable and accessible
  - documentation and consistency philosophy/practice
  - transparency of policy, decisions, and placement recommendation
  - fair, clear, and non-discriminatory
  - accuracy of information and eradication of fraud
  - respect for diversity of education systems
  - appeals process
Discussion Question 2:

- documentation and consistency philosophy/practice
- transparency of policy, decisions, and placement recommendation
- fair, clear, and non-discriminatory

How does your institution communicate to prospective students the policies, practices and process necessary for the review of their credentials prior to enrollment?

What could you be doing differently or better when viewed through the lens of Article III of the GCR?
Discussion Question 3:

- accuracy of information and eradication of fraud
- respect for diversity of education systems

➢ What resources do you use to ensure that you have information that is current and accurate? Who on your team has access to those information sources?

➢ How do you train your team to ensure that they are making appropriate decisions and can identify potential fraud?
Discussion Question 4:

✓ appeals process

➢ How and to what extent do you communicate evaluations to prospective students?

➢ What is the process for appealing an unfavorable evaluation?
