Preparing students to be successful by understanding the differences around them, will be of value to all stakeholders, from individual student to broader society.

The importance of employability skills is vital for success in the workplace. Higher education institutions need to be more intentional and explicit about how they are addressing such skills as a student outcome – for all students. Technology and digital solutions may help in supporting such intercultural training.

SOURCE: ROUTLEDGE series Internationalization in Higher Education, Nannette Ripmeester & Darla K. Deardorff
Test your intercultural competence!

LET'S PLAY

https://careerprofessor.works/try/aiea2020
(link available from 15/02 to 24/02)