

2020-2021 AIEA Presidential Fellows

Jeff Cohen is Executive Director of the Office of Global Affairs (OGA) at the University of Washington Tacoma. OGA includes offices of student fellowships, study abroad, and international student and scholar services. He also supports the development of international partnerships and broader internationalization efforts. Cohen holds a doctorate in Criminology and is faculty in the School of Social Work and Criminal Justice. His most recent publication is a co-authored book entitled Criminology Explains School Bullying.

David DeVallance is Vice Rector for Internationalization at the University of Primorska (UP) in Koper, Slovenia. He is responsible for leading UP's internationalization research and education efforts. DeVallance is also the Renewable Materials Composites Group Leader at InnoRenew Centre of Excellence. He earned his PhD and MS degrees at Oregon State University, and a BS degree from the Pennsylvania State University. Prior to moving to Slovenia, DeVallance was an Associate Professor at West Virginia University.

Annie Phillips is Executive Director for International Affairs at Texas Woman's University. She oversees international activities including ISSS, Education Abroad, and international partnerships. Phillips is a member of AIEA's 2018 Leadership Academy cohort and presents frequently on gender and communication. She previously taught in the area of Communication Studies and served as a student affairs administrator. Phillips holds a MA in Communication Studies and a PhD in Higher Education from the University of North Texas.

2020-21 AIEA Presidential Mentors

Anne M. D'Angelo is Assistant Dean of Global Initiatives at the Carlson School of Management and an adjunct faculty in the College of Education and Human Development, University of Minnesota. She also is a certified leadership/executive coach. D'Angelo has worked overseas in Central/Eastern Europe, Northern Africa, Republic of Georgia and Japan. D'Angelo presents and publishes on numerous topics. She holds an M.A. and doctorate in organizational leadership, policy and development from the University of Minnesota.

Douglas Proctor is Director, UCD Global at University College Dublin, where he has management responsibility for the international office and provides leadership to the broader university community on internationalisation, international engagement and international partnerships. Proctor is a Senior Fellow of the International Education Association of Australia (IEAA), he holds a PhD in international higher education from the University of Melbourne, and is currently Chair of the European Association for International Education (EAIE) Publications Committee.

Jewell Green Winn serves Tennessee State University as Senior International Officer, Exec Dir for Int'l Affairs, Chief Diversity Officer, and Assistant Professor in the Department of Educational Administration. She serves on the Board of Directors for the National Association of Diversity Officers in Higher Education (NADOHE), Tennessee Diversity Consortium and Alignment Nashville. Winn is a graduate of Leadership Nashville, the Maxine Smith Fellows Program, the Middle Tennessee Leadership Development Program, the Millennium Leadership Institute, the American Council on Education's Spectrum Executive Leadership Program and the Senior International Officer's Institute.