Association of International Education Administrators Announces
Dr. Jane Gatewood as 2025 President-Elect

Durham, NC (December 11, 2024)—The Association of International Education Administrators (AIEA) announces Dr. Jane Gatewood as 2025 President-Elect. Dr. Gatewood brings extensive expertise in global engagement, international education leadership, and higher education policy.

Dr. Gatewood currently serves as Vice Provost for Global Engagement at the University of Rochester. In January 2025, she will transition to the same role at Emory University, her alma mater. Her contributions to the field include editing NAFSA's Guide to International Academic Partnerships, creating one of the first international partnership units at a U.S. higher education institution, and consulting on education and civil society development in Eastern Europe. She holds a Ph.D. from the University of Georgia.

Dr. Gatewood has held key leadership roles within NAFSA and serves on the AIEA Board of Directors. Her experience includes chairing AIEA's CEO Search Committee and serving as Finance Committee Chair, providing her with critical insights into the organization's operations and strategic direction.

In her statement of intent, Dr. Gatewood highlighted her commitment to advancing AIEA's mission and supporting its strategic initiatives:

"I am passionate about building upon AIEA's legacy of fostering innovative international education strategies and supporting the professional development of senior international officers. I will leverage my experience to strengthen AIEA's position as the premier organization for international education leaders."

Dr. Gatewood's election comes at a pivotal time as AIEA implements its 2025–2028 strategic plan, focusing on shaping global education policy and advancing leadership in internationalization.

AIEA expresses its gratitude to the Governance Committee for overseeing the nominations and election process.
